1. The Senior Officers' Conference ended on Wednesday, 29 October. Colonel White utilized the last afternoon to summarize the presentations and answer questions raised by the conferees. [redacted] felt that the material covered in the three-day session was most beneficial. We have requested [redacted] of the Comptroller's Staff to give an hour's presentation in the next Budget and Finance Procedures course similar to his coverage during the conference. We are currently following up on several inter-office issuances that were discussed which will have direct bearing on our instruction. It is hoped that this Faculty will be included in any future conferences.

2. We noted in a recent press release that the Department of State inaugurated on 22 September an advanced course for Senior Officers which will run through June 1959.

3. [redacted] reviewed the following films to determine their suitability for possible use in Phase I (Tradecraft) of Operations Support: "The Man Who Never Was" (CE), "The Cage" (interrogation) and "Forbidden Area" (sabotage).

4. [redacted] has prepared questions to be used in the discussion period following the showing of the film "The Thief" to the present Operations Support class. This is an attempt to increase the teaching value of the film. The technique will be used experimentally this time with an eye to its increased future use in Phase I presentations.
